

Description

The conference cloud management platform supports the connection with the video conference system, which can synchronize the reserved conference information to the video conference system. The administrator can create and start video conferences in the video conference module, and can manage enterprises and accounts.

Feature:

- * The administrator can create and start video conferences in the video conference module. Fill in the conference name, start time, end time, participants, the maximum number of participants and conference description to create a conference or save it as a conference template. After creating a conference, the administrator can manually start the video conference, and then the administrator can manually invite the video conference terminal to go online to participate in the conference;
- * The administrator can add enterprise management and account management under VCS management in the video conference module, which will be automatically synchronized to the video conference system;
- * The administrator can make reservations to initiate video conferences and view conference records and synchronize them to the video conference system to generate conference records. The conference created and initiated by the administrator in the video conference module of Cloud Conference System will be automatically synchronized to the video conference system to generate a meeting record; the conference created and initiated in the video conference system will also be automatically synchronized to the video conference module of Cloud Conference System; the settings in the video conference system in the conference system will be automatically synchronized to the video conference module of Cloud Conference System.